

UNIVERSITY OF SAN FRANCISCO

School of Business and Professional Studies

The University of San Francisco seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in nonprofit management at the rank of assistant or associate professor to start in fall 2011. This position is in the Department of Organizations, Leadership, and Society in the School of Business and Professional Studies. We seek applicants with demonstrated teaching and research competencies in nonprofit management and philanthropic studies, with particular emphasis in marketing and/or fundraising, both generally and within communities of color.

Requirements: A successful candidate must have: (1) an earned doctorate in a field related to the above subject areas by the time of appointment; (2) an expectation of excellence in teaching; and (3) an established or emerging research program.

Applications Instructions: To apply please use NPAdminSearch@usfca.edu to submit the application, including: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the names, addresses, and phone numbers of at least three professional references. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Inquiries about the position can be directed to the chair of the search committee, Professor Michael O'Neill, at oneill@usfca.edu or 415-422-2163.

Information regarding USF and the School of Business and Professional Studies is available at: <http://web.usfca.edu/bps>.

The University of San Francisco's Master of Nonprofit Administration began in 1983 and was the nation's first master's degree program devoted to the needs of nonprofit organization managers. The successful candidate for this position will play an important role in shaping the present and future of this historic program.

The School of Business and Professional Studies offers bachelor and master degree programs. The School is housed in Malloy Hall, a new, purpose-built facility with fully modern classrooms, offices, and informal workspaces.