The School of Business Administration at Portland State University seeks exceptional candidates for two tenure track positions in strategic management beginning Fall 2011. The ideal candidate should have (1) an earned doctorate in business or related field with an emphasis in strategic management (advanced ABD candidates will be considered) from an AACSB-accredited institution; (2) evidence or promise of a strong and innovative program of research in relevant areas of strategic management; (3) demonstration of teaching excellence in strategic management courses; and (4) a strong and continuing commitment to both research and teaching.

Portland State's School of Business is AACSB-accredited, has a strong commitment to both research and teaching, serves over 3,400 students, and grants more graduate degrees than any other university in Oregon. The School maintains strategic initiatives in the areas of entrepreneurship, food industry, health care industry, international and sustainability. We offer a stimulating, collegial environment that values a diversity of research approaches and topics, and supports research efforts through the provision of graduate assistantships, travel funds, summer support, and a teaching load conducive to effective scholarship. The School of Business maintains strong ties with industry partners, providing ample research opportunities. Management faculty regularly publish in top-level journals including the Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Journal of Applied Psychology, Journal of Business Venturing, Journal of Management, Journal of International Business Studies, Personnel Psychology, Strategic Management Journal, Business Strategy & the Environment, Organization & Environment, and California Management Review.

The University is dispersed over 49 acres of greenspace amidst the cultural and business center of downtown Portland. Portland was ranked number one by Popular Science as the "World's Greenest City" (2008) and number one by SustainLane as "Sustainable City" (2008). Portland is a thriving city of natural beauty considered to be a model for livability, environmental stewardship and new urbanism principles. Portland is located within an hour's drive of mountains and the Oregon coast.
