

Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI)

Assistant/Associate Professor, Philanthropic Studies, School of Liberal Arts Philanthropic Studies at IUPUI seeks a tenure-track Assistant/Associate Professor in the area of Philanthropic Studies beginning August 1, 2010. A Ph.D. in Philanthropic Studies or an allied field is required.

Experience in teaching in higher education and a record of research in philanthropic or nonprofit studies is preferred. Candidates are expected to teach in the undergraduate and graduate programs, advise students, conduct research in the field, and provide service to the program and school as expected of any faculty member.

IUPUI is the home of the Center on Philanthropy, a part of the School of Liberal Arts, and it also collaborates closely with the IU School of Public and Environmental Affairs. The faculty is made up of more than 50 active faculty members from 21 disciplines that teach and conduct research in the fields of philanthropic and nonprofit studies. Philanthropic Studies offers a traditional-format Ph.D. program and an MA in regular and executive formats. Recently, an undergraduate BA degree in Philanthropic Studies was approved.

IUPUI is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution M/F/D. The School of Liberal Arts has endorsed efforts to increase the diversity of its ranks, and accordingly, candidates from under-represented groups in the school are encouraged to apply. Philanthropic Studies is particularly interested in and values candidates who have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds, and a demonstrated commitment to improving access and the conditions in higher education for under-represented students. The review of applications will begin on February 15, 2010 and the search will remain open until the position is filed.
